HIGH SCHOOL.

Leroy M. Handy, Principal.

Antrim, N. H., Feb. 15, 1910.

Mr. F. L. Kendall, Superintendent:—

Upon September 13, 1909, we commenced the fall term with an enrollment of forty-two pupils in the High School. There were fifteen first year pupils, eight sophomores, ten juniors and nine seniors. Of the forty-two scholars enrolled ten were tuition pupils, coming from the towns of Bennington, Hancock and Dublin.

The attendance has been very satisfactory throughout the year; a fact that is of no small importance in the progress and success of school work.

The faculty of the High School is the same as that of last year.

There has been a change in the curriculum of studies this year which is in many respects a decided improvement. We still have two courses, the Scientific and the Classical. It is in the Scientific Course that the greater changes have been made. Commercial Geography and Law have been dropped, and in their stead Arithmetic and Bookkeeping have been instituted. The choice of Arithmetic as a High School study is a good one because too often we hear the comment that High School students know nothing of that subject. We do not aim to give a finished course in Bookkeeping, as our facilities will not allow it, but we do intend to give an elementary knowledge of that study. Geology and Astronomy are also new subjects that are taught this year, and they have a practical value and interest. The Scientific group offers a strong course in History also, as it includes Greek and Roman, Mediaeval and Modern, English and United States histories. The Classical Course, which aims to meet college requirements, is the same as last year, with the exceptions that Physics is now a required study and only two years' study of French is now demanded.

It seems a lamentable fact that some pupils leave school apparently with no better reason than their own temporary desire, backed by their parents' indifference. The ordinary boy or girl desires encouragement, and from where else should that encouragement come than from the home?

In conclusion, we wish to thank each of the several teachers for their hearty and earnest co-operation, and we also wish to give favorable mention to our janitor for his care of our building.

Very respectfully submitted,

LEROY M. HANDY, Principal.

To the Superintendent of Schools:—

The work in Music started last year in the schools in Antrim is growing. A good foundation is being laid, and all grades are making progress. By the end of the school year the lower grades will be up to the prescribed course of study. The outside schools are doing good work, particularly the school at Antrim Branch. I want to speak especially of the interest the High School is showing, and of the good work that is being done there.

Much importance is laid upon the individual work, for the true test lies in what each pupil can do. By carrying on this individual work in a systematic manner we are striving to form habits of self-control, concentration, accuracy, mental alertness and independence.

Following is the prescribed course of study for the nine grades adopted by the Weaver System and already started in the Antrim schools.

MEMBERS OF THE SCHOOL BOARD:

In view of the fact that I have been connected with the schools of Antrim only since the first of November, it will not be possible to review the work of an entire year and make note of the progress that has been made during that period. It may be possible, however, to say something concerning conditions existing at the present time, and to make suggestions regarding the future.

After inspecting the work of the schools, and becoming somewhat acquainted with what was being done, it seemed to me that more could be accomplished in the matter of first grade reading, if some one of the carefully worked out systems for teaching that subject should be followed. With that thought in mind I recommended the adoption of the Aldine method in the South Antrim school. This method is being rapidly introduced into New England schools, and has been producing good results in places where it has been tried. The outcome here thus far seems to justify the step taken. As the teacher becomes more familiar with the details of the work, still better results may reasonably be expected.

This leads me to say that the most vital part of the educational plant is the teaching force. This statement will stand without being questioned by those who are acquainted with school work. For that reason, it is desirable to secure the best teachers that it is possible with the money that is available. The State of New Hampshire realizes that teachers with training for their work are needed in the schools, and has passed a law that will assist towns of low valuation in securing such teachers. According to the provisions of this Act, any town that has a population below three thousand five hundred, and a valuation of less than seven thousand dollars per pupil of average attendance shall receive from the State two dollars a week for each teacher who holds a State certificate or a diploma from an approved normal school. The money thus received may be used to increase the salaries of teachers already in the service or it may be used in employing new teachers of more pronounced qualifications for the work, or it may be used to provide better school opportunities in other ways. Stated briefly, the object of the law is to enable the towns benefited to have better schools than they would have had if the law had not been enacted. In all probability, a very large portion of the money thus received throughout the State will be used to give the teachers better salaries.

The question of expending school money, however obtained, so that the best returns may be secured, is one that demands thoughtful consideration. It is quite generally admitted that in a town with small schools, it is often better to unite some of them and engage stronger teachers to take charge of the consolidated schools. Where this has been tried, there is seldom any desire to return to the old way of doing after the new has become established. Even those who previously had a small school near their homes prefer to have their children transported to a well conducted graded school. They realize that the children have advantages there that could not well be provided if the schools were small and scattered. And further, instruction in the small schools is expensive. Even if the teacher receives but seven dollars a week for teaching six or seven pupils, the cost of instruction per pupil is a dollar or more a week. If the teachers in the larger schools should be paid at that rate, many of them would receive from thirty to forty dollars a week, a sum that would secure the best talent available but which would deplete the treasury with remarkable rapidity.

In closing this report, I desire to thank those with whom my duties have brought me in contact for their co-operation and uniform courtesy.

Respectfully submitted,

FREDERICK L. KENDALL,

Superintendent of Schools.

To the Selectmen of Antrim:

In making our annual report, we submit reports of the Superintendent of Schools, the Supervisor of Music and the Principal of our High School. As they have covered the ground quite thoroughly it seems unnecessary for us to take up the subjects they have dealt with.

Since our last report we have painted the inside of the room in Divisions 2, 3 and 4. The school houses through the district are now in fairly good repair. We think of nothing, in the way of extraordinary repairs, needed at present.

State laws make it obligatory for towns to raise a certain amount of money for school purposes, also for books and supplies and flags for school houses. It is unnecessary to vote for these amounts in school meeting. Therefore we have no article in our warrant calling for action on them. We wish, however, to notify you of the amounts that will be needed for these purposes.

The amount required by law for this town is $2,295.00. We shall need $400.00 for books and supplies and $10.00 for flags. You will note that $400.00 is much more than has usually been appropriated for books and supplies. This is owing to the fact that heretofore the amount raised has been for the district schools alone. The high school books and supplies having been purchased from the amount appropriated for high school purposes. We have been informed by the State Superintendent that it is illegal to purchase books and supplies with money so appropriated. Therefore we deem it advisable to make this change.

Respectfully submitted,

CHARLES F. BUTTERFIELD,
HENRY A. HURLIN,
CHARLOTTE M. HARVEY,

School Board of Antrim.

The town contributions for state highways for the years 1907 and 1908, amounting to $1,972.50, should have been set aside, but was used by the town and not credited in the reports of 1907 and 1908, making the town debt seem $1,972.50 less than it was last year.

We hereby certify that we have examined the foregoing accounts of the Town Officers, and find them properly vouched and correctly cast.

LIBRARIAN'S REPORT.

Antrim, N. H., February 8, 1910.

The year just closed has been without exception one of the most successful in the history of the library, not only since the present building has been in use, but in former years as well.

Over 7,400 books have been loaned the past twelve months; of this number fiction has predominated, but the per cent of history, science, biography and travel has materially increased over that of former years. A large number of books have been loaned the pupils of the schools throughout town for supplementary reading.

There are over 700 borrowers' cards issued, and of this number about 500 are in constant use. Since January 1st of this year, the library has increased its hours, being open each Tuesday afternoon from 2.30 until 4, and from 7 until 9 in the evening, also each Saturday from 2.30 p. m. until 9. This increase of hours affords an opportunity for the townspeople to enjoy the reading-rooms, to consult the reference books not allowed to be taken from the library, and gives an opportunity to those living outside the village to visit the library and select books at the close of working hours. That this extension of time is appreciated, is proved by the number of new patrons from North Branch, and the east and west parts of the town. According to the library regulations one citizen may come to the library and select books for others in his neighborhood, and this opportunity has been improved by a large number who live some distance from the library building. The reading rooms are well patronized by the young people, and by members of the reading clubs and societies in town, who secure material in the books of reference for papers and essays.

During the year over 350 visitors have registered; the list includes names from 14 different states, the Provinces of Quebec and Ontario, and one from Portugal. Among the important visitors during the year were Governor Henry B. Quinby and several members of his staff.

The list of reference books has been greatly enriched by the purchase of a set of the New International Encyclopedia, consisting of 21 volumes bound in half morocco; this set was bought on advice of the State Librarian, Mr. Arthur Chase of Concord, and considered the best of its kind. The scientific department has been enlarged by books purchased from the Boutwell fund, and these volumes have been read by many of the young men employed in the cutlery shops. In addition to these books, the trustees have added over 100 volumes of the best late fiction, travel, and history, and a good selection for the younger readers.

The library has been especially well remembered with gifts the past year, and among those who have presented books are Wyman Kneeland Flint of Milwaukee, Mrs. Charles R. Talbot and Cumner Talbot of Brookline, Mass., Mrs. Abbie Gove, Mrs. W. E. Cram, Miss Isabel Jameson, and Charles S. Abbott. Those who have supplied the reading rooms with literature are former Governor D. H. Goodell, Miss Emma S. McCoy, Mrs. Melvin D. Poor, Mrs. W. E. Cram, Mrs. E. T. Adams, Mrs. Lucretia Shaw, Mrs. Oscar H. Robb, Mrs. Kate D. Paine of New York City, Mrs. Galen L. Stone and Mrs. Charles R. Talbot of Brookline, Mass. Reading matter has been received from the local W. C. T. U. and from the National Red Cross Society through the courtesy of Hon. Nathan C. Jameson, and through the gift of Editor H. W. Eldredge the library table has been supplied each week with a copy of the Antrim Reporter.

A set of six beautifully framed photographs of Antrim, Ireland, from which this town received its name, has been given by John B. Jameson.

In the gift of Hon. and Mrs. G. A. Cochran of a framed picture of the Cochran Homestead, the library has come into possession of the picture of one of the town's important historic landmarks and the gift has been placed in the north reading room of the library, where it adds greatly to the attractiveness of the place.

A number of antique articles have been presented by Mrs. G. E. Hutchinson, William Newman, Mrs. Nims and Mrs. Whittle, and W. H. Richardson of Winchester, Mass. Two other gifts of interest are a Bible printed in 1752 and owned by Deacon Tristram Sawyer, a former resident of the town, presented by his daughter, Miss Frances Sawyer of Orange, Mass.; also a pair of buckskin breeches made and worn in 1800 by Samuel Dinsmoor, an early settler of Antrim, and given the library by his grandson, Dr. Samuel M. Dinsmoor of Keene.

Through the courtesy of Fred C. Parmenter, secretary of the Tuttle Library Building Committee, the library has been presented with the secretary's book containing a neatly written account of the proceedings of the committee from the time the present library building was begun until its completion. This record will be one of historic interest to the town in years to come.

The children's reading room has been presented with an attractive pair of mounted hawks given by Mrs. Helen Page, and they occupy a prominent place on the mantle of the room.

Under the most successful conditions the library year closes, with brilliant prospects for a yet more prosperous year to come.

S. M. ADAMS,

Librarian.
